

BRIGHTONE

BrightOne Personality Questionnaire investigates how people in the workplace work with others, their ability to self reflect and recheck themselves to understand their core purpose of existence. Characters such as forgiveness, compassion, empower and patience are important for leading and working with people. While characters of complying, reflecting and rebuild allows one to continue to be held accountable by others and helps revive and reinvent self towards bigger picture. With the world and the workplace constantly changing, these characteristics remain vital in order to grow as an individual and in their environment.
